LevelUmp Welcomes Martha Rigney as New Uniform Executive

Ormond Beach, FL – LevelUmp is thrilled to announce Martha Rigney as its new Uniform Executive. A passionate advocate for inclusivity and accessibility in sportswear, Martha brings a unique blend of experience and talent to the organization.

Martha is a third-year fashion and merchandising student at Louisiana State University, earning state and national acclaim for her unique and innovative designs. Her mission as Uniform Executive is to revolutionize uniforms in women's umpiring and officiating, making them more accessible and comfortable for all body types while ensuring high performance and functionality.

Adding to her expertise, Martha has umpiring experience herself, giving her a firsthand understanding of the needs and challenges women face in officiating. This perspective will guide her as she develops solutions that empower female officials on and off the field.

LevelUmp is a nonprofit organization dedicated to supporting, advocating for, and creating opportunities for women in professional sports officiating. Through mentorship, resources, and initiatives, LevelUmp aims to break barriers and advance gender equity within the officiating community.
